The central portico of the building is a focal point, featuring a series of white columns supporting a pediment. On top of the columns stand several white statues. Below the columns are three main entrances with dark wood doors. To the left and right of the central entrance are two green statues on pedestals. A set of stone steps leads up to the portico. Several bicycles are parked in a designated area in front of the steps. A banner with the text "Hungry for Time" is visible hanging from the portico.
